

Pearl Wilson Is The Sole Heiress of The Elsie Smith Estate

Letters Granted in Estate of Late Member of New Hope Artists' Colony

DOYLESTOWN, January 3 — Pearl E. Wilson, Bristol, who was named executrix and also the sole residuary heir, will inherit the $1,329.59 estate of Elsie M. Smith, Bristol. The beneficiary-executrix resides on Colonial avenue, Bristol Terrace. The will was dated July 29, 1949, and the testatrix died October 18th. It was a holographic will, written in pen and ink, on one sheet of stationery.

Letters of administration in the estate of Peter Keenan, Solebury township, formerly a member of the New Hope artists' colony, were granted to a son, James Keenan, Doylestown, R. D., amounting to $2,000.

Keenan, who died August 15, left a widow, Maria, of New Hope, and four sons, James, Doylestown, R. D.; Terrace, St. Louis, Mo.; Arthur and Brian, both in the U. S. Army, and a daughter, Sheila Keenan, New York, N. Y.

Eva Basht, Hilltown township, who died November 25, left a $6,000 estate, and the Perkasie Trust Co. was named executor. The husband, Andy Basht, is the heir, according to the will, dated June 17. After his death, one-half of the estate will be inherited by Stephen and Barbara A. Basht, and the remaining residue by Lena Helf, Eva Young and Anna Helf.

The husband, George A. Coyle, was named the beneficiary of a trust fund created by Anna T. Coyle, Doylestown, who died November 21. After his death, a niece, Ethel Ballie, Doylestown, R. D. 3, will inherit the personal and real estate holdings. She was named the executrix, and the will was dated November 15, 1943. Real estate includes one-half of a two and one-half story house, 102 East Oakland avenue.

President-Elect Eisenhower Must Make Basic Decision on Korean War in An Attempt to Reduce In 1953 the "Hot" Spots Around the Soviet Orbit

By John H. Martin
(I. N. S. Foreign Director)

President-elect Eisenhower must make a basic decision on the Korean war in an attempt to reduce in 1953 the number of hot and cold war spots around the edge of the Soviet orbit and beyond.

The State Department has warned that Russia might precipitate "local wars" in six small nations, Thailand, Burma, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Afghanistan, if she thinks they can succeed.

However, the department said that the long-range objective of Soviet policy is to conquer the free world piecemeal and isolate the United States.

No early attack on the U. S. and its allies is predicted by the department. But the communists have a total of 491 divisions should they decide to attack. These include 181 Russian, and 250 Chinese Red divisions.

Here is a summary of the situation in the various hot and cold war spots at the end of 1952:

Korea

Eisenhower, on the basis of his first-hand study of the situation in frozen Korea, could: (1) Order a new offensive coordinated with amphibious landings on the North Korean coast. (Amphibious "end run" attacks were practiced recently by picked UN troops); (2) order

GI FIGHTS TO BRING FAMILY TO U. S.

SGT. WILLIAM PELLOSKI, 33, looks at a picture of his Austrian war bride, Hildegard, and their son, Peter, as he prepares to leave for the United States. While the State Department has cleared Mrs. Pelloski on a non-quota visa as wife of a serviceman, the American consul in Frankfurt has turned it down. Pelloski said she was being barred because some years ago she had stolen food "just to survive," and declared he would renounce the country he fought for if his family is barred. (International)

To Open Office Here Soon For Turnpike Commission

Most of the Key Men Have Been Assigned and Office Furniture Arrives

Announcement of the official opening date of the Bristol office of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is expected momentarily as the final load of office furniture and equipment for the office arrived this week.

It was stated by a local official that most of the key men who will work from the office have been assigned here, and the remainder are expected to be assigned by Monday, but as yet no Commission announcement of those assigned here has been made.

This office, according to report, will be charged with "overseeing" the work of the contractors engaged in construction of the Delaware River extension of the roadway when the contracts are let.

The office on the second floor of the Stoneback Lumber Company at Dorrance and Canal streets has been used as a base of operations for field personnel who have been surveying the proposed turnpike right-of-way and making sounding borings along Route 13 near Green Lane and at points where bridges and other structures will be erected.

A check of property owners along the turnpike route discloses that though local officials and surveyors have been busy at work along the proposed route no official notification has come from the Commission offices in Harrisburg that their properties have been condemned.

New Sub-Station Is To Supply 1,000 Houses

Fallsington Station of Electric Company to 'Cover' 6 Square Mile Area

The new Fallsington sub-station of the Philadelphia Electric Co., which will be in operation at Fallsington avenue and Moon lane early this month, will provide enough electrical capacity to supply 1000 homes, or their equivalent in electrical requirements, in the six square mile area, including Fallsington, the vicinity of the station.

According to a spokesman for the company, the additional unit planned for service late in 1953 will double the capacity, or supply power to 2000 homes in the same area.

And if growth in the area meets anticipations, said the spokesman, provisions have been made to install up to eight of the units at the Fallsington avenue location to provide electricity to 6500 to 7500 homes in the area.

Delights Club with Films Of a Trip to Europe

John Burris Gives Vivid Account of Journeys in Several Countries

Prefacing the projection of outstanding natural color films with a brief account of travels through Europe during the past summer, John Burris, Doolington, capably held the interest of Travel Club members yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Burris, who is guidance counselor at Bristol high school, shared with the local club women his experiences in European travel — some of which at moments appeared tragic to the travelers, others most humorous, then by means of a few hundred slides, showed highlights of journeys through Scotland, Italy, France, Austria, and Holland.

He reminded his audience, before showing the colorful pictures, that

Pleads Guilty to Three Attacks Upon Women

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 3 — Paul A. Frankenhauser, 31, 10574-C Air Lane, Northeast Village, Phila., who pleaded guilty in Quarter Sessions Court, here, Sept. 3, to criminal charges involving three different women, was sentenced to Fairview State Hospital, near Hawley, by President Judge Hiram H. Keller during a session of miscellaneous court today.

The defendant, who underwent a psychiatry examination for 60 days at the Norristown State Hospital, pleaded guilty to three bills of indictment charging him with rape, assault and battery with intent to ravish, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery and indecent assault.

Trooper Keith R. Dane, of the Langhorne sub-station of the Penna. State Police, arrested the defendant in connection with crim-

Fairless Hills Church Is Not Quite Finished

Service of Institution Not To Be Held Tomorrow As Was Planned

FAIRLESS HILLS, Jan. 3 — The Service of Institution for the new Methodist Church of Fairless Hills has been postponed from tomorrow to a future date, Rev. Theodore Pavlidis, pastor, said today.

He said the new church edifice, under construction on a five-acre tract at 840 Hulmeville-Trenton rd., is nearly completed, but some building materials late in arriving have delayed finishing touches.

Methodist services, begun here in May, are now held each Sunday in the community center at the Mer-shon House, Oxford Valley-Tullytown rd.

The almost-completed church building, of Gunnison construction similar to that of the new houses here, will seat 200 persons, Rev. Pavlidis said, and will be used for all Methodist Church functions until other units are added.

"Ours is the first church whose site was approved by the Phila. Council of Churches", the pastor said. "The response here has been entirely favorable."

"We set a tentative building program for the future before construction was started. We are planning to build the main sanctuary in six to eight months, and a main educational unit will be added to it. Later, a gymnasium and social hall will be built."

The church is being built by Dan-

Every Effort To Be Made by Bensalem Township Supervisors to Keep the 1953 Budget Within The 1952 Figures, Says Supervisors' President

This is the fifth in a series of interviews with officials of municipalities in Lower Bucks County concerning accomplishments and those playing a part in its great expansion in 1952 and the outlook for 1953. In boroughs, the presidents of councils were asked to list accomplishments in 1952, and the burgesses were requested to give the outlook for 1953. In townships, the head of the supervisors or president of commissioners were interviewed.

William White, chairman of the Bensalem Township Board of Supervisors said today that the entire tax structure of the township will be "scanned thoroughly" by the supervisors when the 1953 budget is made up to determine whether a tax cut might be possible. He added that he would be behind any move to "hold the line" on the 1953 budget, and to cut township taxes.

White said that in spite of increased assessments, whether a tax cut was possible depended on the many factors which make up the cost of running the township. These factors he listed as: street lighting, roads, police protection.

As for growth of Bensalem Township in 1952, it did not match that of adjoining municipalities, White declared. He stated that he had no good reason to believe that growth would be more rapid in 1953. Explaining that no major developers or large industry had begun construction in the township during 1952, White added that there was no "concrete" reason to believe that such tax source would move into the township in 1953.

Population was over 11,000 in the township at the start of last year.

Girl Lost from Levittown Found Walking at Pennel

Virginia Mitchell, 18, Is Recognized by Bus Driver

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 3 — A bus driver awaiting appointment to the Trenton Police Force put his detective ability to work last night and located a Levittown girl who had been missing from her home for 24 hours.

The lost girl, Virginia Mitchell, 18, of 57 Greenbrook dr., is the daughter of Charles V. and Kathleen Mitchell, who moved here from Trenton, Nov. 5. Virginia was found walking on the Lincoln Highway at Pennel at 12:30 this morning by Richard Bergen, of 74 Emlaine st., Trenton, a driver for the Blue Coach Co.

Bergen had stopped in the Levittown Police Headquarters earlier yesterday, and read a notice describing the lost girl. In Pennel last night, while off duty, he saw Virginia, and recognized her from the police description.

Taken to the Levittown Police Station by Bergen the girl told Officer Neil Hepler, of Bristol twp., "I don't know what happened." She was returned to her home by Bristol twp. Officers Edward Ellison and Ralph Ragnoli. Later this morning Virginia was examined at Bristol General Hospital, where

T. J. Morgan Dies; First Coroner's Case in '53

6th Ward Man Is Found in Unconscious State By Neighbors Yesterday

The first coroner's case in Bucks county for 1953 is the death of Thomas Jay Morgan, 72, of 218 Cleveland street.

Mr. Morgan was stricken yesterday afternoon, and died a short while later. According to the Bristol General Hospital the patient was dead upon arrival.

Death, according to deputy coroner of Bucks county, Dr. Wm. Goldfarb, was due to a heart attack.

Neighbors had not seen Morgan for a time, and they discovered him in an unconscious state. A physician was summoned, then Bucks Co. Rescue Squad removed Mr. Morgan to the hospital. Bristol police also aided.

The deceased was born in Elyria, Ohio.

Better known as "Fruit-tree" Morgan, due to his many years as salesman for trees and shrubs, Mr. Morgan resided alone. His wife, Alma B. Morgan, died last March. It is stated that a niece and nephew

A little Bucks County girl met death under the wheels of an automobile after she fell from her father's car last evening near Willow Grove; and in two Bucks county highway accidents, four people were hurt.

The dead: Linda Wonder, age four years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wonder, Penna. ave. and Moyer road, Southampton.

The Wonders' daughter, according to Willow Grove police officers, was riding in the rear of an automobile driven by her father last evening about 8:30. "The rear door flew open," Willow Grove police explained this morning, who took the information from their report.

Linda was hurled to the highway, and the wheels of a car driven by Donald Webster, Davidsville road, Willow Grove, passed over her head and body. The child was pronounced dead shortly after she arrived at Abington Hospital. She was carried, limp, into the hospital by her father, who was sped there by police. Death occurred a few minutes after the child reached the hospital.

The Wonder family had been on a shopping trip to Willow Grove, and was en route home when the tragedy occurred on York road, near Cedar avenue, Willow Grove.

The driver of the car, Webster, was released under $1000 bail at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Francis X. Welsh, Upper Merion twp. The technical charge of involuntary manslaughter was lodged. He was traveling in the opposite direction from the Wonders.

In addition to her parents, Linda is survived by a sister, "Kathy," age seven years. Linda attended the Lutheran Sunday School at Southampton.

Three persons were injured in the crash of a florist truck and an auto on Route 1 near Morrisville, yesterday.

Injured were Cecil Bassett, 27, of Bristol street, near Park avenue, Phila., driver of the car. He was detained at Mercer Hospital, Trenton, for treatment of a brain concussion.

Treated for bruises were his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jennie Bassett, 17, and her daughter Jane, 21 months.

According to Chief of Falls township police, Franklin Kirby, after the vehicles collided the auto then

SHOWING THE WAY HOME

Two nights of it annually are about all the Vancouver, B. C., police could be expected to take.
The Canadian city has a municipal car-towing service that ordinarily is devoted to the impounding of illegally parked cars and the removal of wrecks.

Christmas night the service was extended to overloaded car owners. Forty of them qualified by telephoning the police and saying they were too tipsy to drive home, and would a cop please come with a derrick car and trundle them off to bed?

New Year's night was the second such effort by police. Doubtless some accidents were prevented both nights. But couldn't they have been prevented just as well by the simple exercise of restraint on the part of celebrants? And if someone knows he will take drink, regardless, can't he be arranged to be carted home by some other agency than by the police at public expense?

The Vancouver idea looks like governmental paternalism at its most infeasible: when a grown man has to call on the city to get him home to bed.

It is doubtful if the project will be repeated. Imagine the feelings of a cop instructed to drive home and deposit carefully an oafish celebrant singing "Show Me the Way to Go Home." That could be enough to cause any self-respecting policeman to turn in his badge as soon as he got back to the station house.

FRANCE IN CRISIS
France changes cabinets two or three times a year, on the average.
The mere fact that another change is now under way does not warrant calling it a crisis. But the French government is so bogged down in weakness, indecision, and chaos that the situation really does appear critical.

France seems to be on the verge of abandoning her bold and inventive foreign policies, turning her back on European unification, and virtually ending cooperation with the United States.

The weakness of French governments has stemmed from the uncompromising attitude of two of the six principal parties which are almost equally represented in the French parliament. The communists are in perpetual opposition, since they can hope for power only as the aftermath of chaos.
The Gaullists have remained aloof, waiting for the day when things would be so desperate that they would be asked to form an all-Gaullist cabinet.

Any premier, therefore, had to have the support of three of the four remaining parties to form a government. No wonder Premier Pinay said on resigning: "I'll never go back to that bear cage again."

Judging by findings of grand juries and congressional committees, Russia still has a look-in at America.

Sheriffs as soon as possible.

Deputy Sheriff's Meliss R. Meyers,
William Lang and Lovendon Harris flanked the defendant as President Judge Keller disposed of Frankenhauser's case this morning.

"Next year we expect to treat more mileage than last year," said White, who pointed out that every other year township roads get surface treated and 1953 would be a "bigger year" for this type of work.
White said he thought that because of the increase in population he thought it possible there might be an increase in the police force over the three men, Chief George Rentz, Officers William Schramm
and Englebert Smith, who now serve the township.

Presently under construction on Newportville road, just off Route 13, is the new township building which will house road equipment.
According to White the building is expected to be completed by February 20, with good weather.

According to the records of the township treasurer, J. Alfred Rigby:
The township budget for 1952 was $129,625.03. With the closing of the books this year the total current tax income has been $71,908.62, added to this is the $7,202.07 collected this year for last year's unpaid taxes. The balance of the budget is made up of miscellaneous revenues and state appropriations amounting to approximately $13,- 000.

This tax money has been collected from the nine mill township tax and nine mill occupation tax. The fire tax fund for 1952 shows a balance and receipts of $10,796.03.
Of this figure $7000 has been distributed among the five fire companies in the township.

Figures supplied by the county tax office show an increase of $2,205,292 in the assessed valuation of real estate and occupations which totalled $9,283,205 for 1952.

he said, "I feel satisfied that we have a population of over 12,000 in the township now," he added. He indicated that he expected township population to increase at a not too rapid pace.

The township roads are to be lighted by April, according to the Philadelphia Electric Company, and White said the approximately $30,- 000 cost would have to be figured in the 1953 budget.

"We constructed approximately one mile of new roads in 1952," said White. He added that some new roads were put in by developers in the township. Some 10 to 12 miles of roads were surface treated, he

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

The real test of President - elect Eisenhower's
chances for solid cooperation from the Republican Congress is now underway here in Washington.

Members of Congress and political leaders from states that voted Republican in the November election are down now to the brass cannon level of politics—slicing up the patronage.

The administration is represented in the discussions, most of which are conducted by long distance telephone calls, by Herbert Brownell, Eisenhower's choice for Attorney General, and Arthur Summerfield, named for the post of Postmaster General.

The Republican National Committee patronage team is headed by Wesley Roberts and includes Stanley Pratt and Douglas Whitlock, all National Committee officials, and Representatives Charles Halleck of Indiana and Leonard Hall of New York.

Strangely enough, there is so far no visible representation from the GOP side of the Senate, an oversight that probably will be corrected soon or lead to serious trouble.

A President - elect is generally conceded the right to appoint his top team members without regard to party political leaders. This has definitely been the case insofar as Eisenhower is concerned, and only a minimum of grumbling from party politicians is discernible. There is, however, a general feeling among party leaders that future political appointments should be cleared with the State Congressional delegations, to avoid embarrassing Senators and Representatives who like to be the first to know when a hometown boy gets a break from the head of the party.

There are thousands of executive department jobs on the block, as well as large numbers of staff positions on Congressional committees. Members of Congress are already being besieged by job hunters, and almost every member of Congress has from one to a dozen favorites for every available job.

A State quota is being established to avoid wholesale mayhem in GOP political circles. In the art of practical politics there is nothing to do but abide by the quota system, or get left out in the cold, a fate almost as bad as not getting re-elected.

The quota system assures the Southern states that voted for Eisenhower, a share in political appointments. Admittedly this will be comparatively small, compared to a state the size of New York, for instance, but it is better than being ignored entirely. Southern politicians are quick to admit.

All State quotas are secret, and only those directly concerned, usually the senior members of State Congressional delegations, will be apprised of the totals, and then only the total for the members' own state. This reduces the troubles of patronage committees considerably, although by the end of six months everybody on Capitol Hill knows the residence of practically every employee in all branches of Congress. By then, however, the patronage committees will at least be able to point out that even their worst critics did get their back scratched patronage wise, however loud the complaining.

So far the so-called Eisenhower Dewey wing of the Republican party is represented most heavily in top administration jobs. And there is no sign that the patronage appetite of this branch is satiated.
There are moves underway, however, to reduce what has rudely been described in some Congressional circles as eastern gluttony.
Nothing, of course, will be done about the jobs already filled.

As a newcomer to politics Eisenhower has been guilty of some oversights in the finesse of political appointments. And the presence of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Herbert Brownell, a top Dewey henchman, by his side has not been of much help. Neither has had experience in dealing with Congressional patronage nerves.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Robert J. Thomson
Pastor
Pilgrim Presbyterian Church
Edgely

QUIET—SAT., Jan. 3 — "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another." (John 12:34)

"A young Buddhist who had made a very careful study of Christianity and particularly of Christ, said to a Christian regarding his study: 'Your Christ is wonderful, oh, so wonderful, but you Christians, you are not like Him.'"

"Without knowing it, the Buddhist pointed out the greatest need of present-day Christians — more of Christlikeness in those who bear His name. And especially is there the need for more of His love exhibited by Christians to one another." (From Moody monthly.)

This love is to be a reflection of the love Christ first had for us. Here in John 13:31-38 Jesus begins his farewell discourse to the disciples. He announces His death and resurrection and then leaves them a "new commandment." This was the old law of Moses given new meaning and motive by Jesus, "Love one another, as I have loved you."

Jesus showed His love by His death and sacrifice on the cross FOR YOU. How have you repaid Him for this act? If you love Him, keep His commandments to love your fellowmen. How true it is that we SAY we love Him, yet we are not like Him. He has loved us FIRST with a love so great it led to His death. How have we loved Him in return?

Christ wants us to show forth this self-sacrificing love as a witness of our true discipleship to Him.

Prayer
Dear Lord, help us when our faith is weakened by the world to be strong in Thee. Teach us to love Thee even as Thou hast first loved us. Amen.

Mrs. Silvio Clotti, the Misses Helen and Rita Clotti, Mrs. Alice Tyrell, Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, Mrs. Robert Wright, Mrs. Arthur Britton. The nursery-kindergarten school, sponsored by Bristol Ministerium, will resume sessions on Monday at nine a. m. in Bristol Presbyterian Church. The school has been closed for two weeks in observance of the holidays.

herst Corp. on a plot donated by the Fairless Hills builder. A parking lot is being completed, and will be enlarged as the church expands.

After the service of institution, to be announced in two weeks, the church will continue to enroll charter members for a brief period, and the members will then organize and elect officials.

Although the Institution Service was postponed, tomorrow's service will be a special one. Dr. Walter L. Leppert, executive secretary of the City Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, will preach at 11 a. m.

After the service there will be a brief congregational meeting to discuss future church plans.

Middletown Zoning Board

Highway, west of Hulmeville. That the tract of land has a frontage of 425 feet, is 17 feet wide, and 35 feet deep. The tract, or premises, is zoned R-2, according to the zoning code.

The petitioners have applied to the Zoning Board of Adjustment for a 50 per cent increase in building area on the basis of a non-conforming use as a garage and service station.

The application was refused Nov. 22, 1952, and it is for this reason the petitioners are appealing in the Court of Common Pleas, Doylestown.

The petitioners aver the tract of ground is irregular in shape, with the narrowest point being 17 feet and the widest 35 feet, making it practically useless except for the non-conforming use asked for.

Under Section 502, of the Middletown Township Zoning Code, a front yard must have 35 feet depth, two side yards not less than 25 feet and a rear yard 25 feet deep.

The present building is three and one-half feet from the Super-Highway, one and one-half feet from the north street to the South. The building is 21½ feet wide except for an off-set on the south side.

The petitioners allege that the Zoning Board of Adjustment recently permitted an extension as a non-conforming use as a grocery store.

4-Year-Old Girl Fatally Hurt struck two parked cars on the lot of an auto parts concern.

The truck, said Kirby, was operated by Frank Beckett, 18, of Keystone avenue, Morrisville. He was uninjured.

A lower Parkland man, Edward Ellis Arwood, 78, of 14 Spring Grove ave., was rushed to Nazareth Hospital about 5.45 p. m. yesterday for treatment of a broken right leg and internal injuries, after he was struck by an auto while attempting to cross Route 1, near his home, according to Howard C. Shook, chief of Middletown township police. Driver of the car was listed by Shook as A. G. Herman, 56, of Breingsville, Lehigh county. Trevoose Heights rescue squad transported Arwood to the hospital.

Visible damage estimated at about $100 by Bensalem township Police Chief George Rentz resulted when the autos of Joseph H. Moore, Jr., 26, of Hickory Drive, and Charles M. Walker, Jr., 29, of Creston street, both of Philadelphia, collided at the intersection of Route 13 and Virginia avenue, Edgington, at 6.55 o'clock this morning. The accident occurred said Rentz when Walker's auto attempting to make a left hand turn into a nearby diner was struck a glancing blow by Moore's car causing slight front end damage to the cars. No injuries to the drivers was reported.

The discovery of the Lehigh coal mines was made Jan. 31, 1793.

Busy Levittown Resident Provides Fine Recipe

Applesauce Nut Cake, Caramel Frosting Suggested By Mrs. Nelson

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 3 — Mrs. Eleanor Nelson, 39 Stonybrook drive, was one of the first settlers in Levittown, Pa. and since last summer she has become one of the busiest residents of the community. She produced an old cook book of her grandmothers when she was asked for her favorite recipe and this is the one she decided to share:

APPLESAUCE NUT CAKE

½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
1 cup canned applesauce
2¼ cups sifted flour
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. double acting baking powder
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 cup chopped walnuts
Cream shortening and sugar, add applesauce. Sift dry ingredients together, and gradually beat into first mixture. Add nuts. Pour into greased 9x5x3 inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven 325 degrees, for one hour. Frost with

CARAMEL FROSTING
2 lbs. margarine or butter
¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk
¾ cup brown sugar
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla
3 cups (about) confectioners sugar

Mix margarine, milk, brown sugar, and salt in saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add vanilla. Blend in enough confectioners sugar for good spreading consistency. Frost top and sides of cake.

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 3 — By this time, a shipment of blonde mahogany furniture, in modern design, has probably arrived at 2 White Spruce lane, the home of John C. Whalen and his wife, Emily. The Whalens are decorating the entire house in this style.

The couple moved here Dec. 20 from Cottman Park, Phila., with their children, John, 10 and Karen, five. They also brought Rusty, a two-year-old pedigree male Irish setter. Mr. and Mrs. Whalen are both native Philadelphians. He is

Became Trailer Park Owner After Retiring from Position

CORNWELLS MANOR, Jan. 3 — Peter J. McKeown, operator of Cornwells Manor Trailer Court, State rd. and Willows ave., became a trailer owner two years ago after commuting every day from Silver Beach, N. J., to the Turnsted-Trenton Division of General Motors Corp.

McKeown noticed that after a hard day's work he would get sleepy while driving home, he says. He bought a trailer to live nearer to his job, keeping it in Morrisville, and then bought a second trailer as an investment.

In September, five months after retiring from General Motors, McKeown purchased Bob's Trailer Park from Robert Steigleman, and renamed it Cornwells Manor Trailer Court. He is now enlarging the trailer camp here.

In his 14 years at Turnsted-Trenton Division, McKeown set in operation and administered the apprenticeship training program, in which young men work at the General Motors plant, while taking additional training at Trenton School of Industrial Arts.

First Place at Stake In Basketball Game Scheduled Sunday

First place will be at stake in the Bristol Basketball League tomorrow afternoon as the Celtics meet Kaiser Metal in the first game of the double-bill on the Rohm & Haas floor. In the second contest, Hilltop A. C. meets Franklin. The initial game will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

The Celtics, under the management of Vito Della, and Kaiser Metal are unbeaten in league competition with two triumphs each. The Celtics beat Franklin and Lucisano while Kaiser Metal was victorious over Hilltop A. C. and Franklin.

During this week, "Jim" Gallagher was released by the Celtics and signed by Kaiser so Gallagher will be playing against his old teammates tomorrow. The Celtics also signed Tom Boylan and Johnny Wilkins.

Hilltop and Franklin are both seeking their first win of the season. Hilltop has dropped two games while Franklin has lost three straight.

Franklin, defending champions, signed Bill Wallick, lanky center during the week and this is expected to bolster its lineup. Along with Wallick in the starting lineup will be Jack Spencer, Stan Lelinski, Bill Curran, and Robert Palumbo.

Manager Joe Messina, of Hilltop, is anxious to break into the win column and has drilled his boys constantly during the holiday season. Hilltop has been weakened by several of the players leaving for the armed forces but Messina feels that he has secured capable replacements.

BRISTOL BASKETBALL LEAGUE Schedule for Tomorrow

Standings	Won	Lost
Celtics	2	0
Kaiser Metal	2	0
Pennell Acres	1	1
Rohm & Haas	1	1
Lucisano Brothers	1	1
Hilltop	0	2

President-Elect Eisenhower

Chinese nationalist troops, estimated at a half-million strong, are available, but it is unlikely they would be used in Korea. If used at all they probably would be thrown against the South China mainland in diversionary attacks. General "Ike" will speed training of South Korean troops, but it will be a long time before they are ready to take over most of the front from American troops.

Meanwhile the Chinese Red army is rapidly becoming a modern army in the western sense. Given a few more years it is going to become increasingly harder to defeat. So Eisenhower must make some basic decisions quickly.

Indo-China Few military commanders would envy the French position in Indo-China. France's own "Korea," today, Modern Russian equipment is flowing into northern Indo-China through communist China. The number of trained communist-led Vietminh troops is growing steadily. The war since 1946 has cost the French approximately 30,000 killed and missing, plus 21,250 loyalist Vietnamese killed and missing. The war has cost the French treasury more than five billion dollars, has hurt French home rearmament, caused damage to morale and misunderstandings with the allies.

The fighting has been ferocious, including hand-to-hand bayoneting and clubbing in the trenches around Nasam air base northwest of Hanoi.

In the past year the French have made great progress in training Vietnamese troops, but so have the Vietminh forces grown in strength. The communist foe also has used orthodox frontal attacks instead of the old hit-and-run guerrilla tactics.

The western world stands to lose very much if the French collapse or withdraw in weariness from Indo-China. If Indo-China falls, the door is open to a communist march into the rice fields of Thailand, Burma, and Malaya.

Malaya The communist bid for power in Malaya is not proportionately as large-scale nor as immediately serious as in Indo-China. But it has tied down large numbers of British troops which could have been used in Korea.

The Red guerrillas have made things tough and dangerous but have not succeeded in causing an economic breakdown in Malaya, which continues to maintain its enormous productivity in rubber, tin, iron, pineapples, palm oil and tapioca. Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, the British high commissioner, said recently that his forces are "beginning to get the shooting war under control," but he would not hazard a guess about when the emergency would end. He did say, however, that in the past year the communists have realized that their terrorist campaign "has turned the masses of people against them."

It was Sir Gerald who instituted the idea of collective punishment of towns and villages found aiding the Red guerrillas. He said this idea has "paid dividends."

Thailand Communism is not a serious internal menace in Thailand but will be if Indo-China falls. There is no armed communist movement. Squabbles within the various military cliques are possible and could weaken the country's resistance to the Reds. The Thailand people are prosperous, probably the most contented of any in southeast Asia. Communism finds difficulty making headway in these circumstances.

Burma Burma often has been regarded as the weakest link in the entire chain of southeast Asia non-communist states. The government has been struggling ever since the war to restore its war-disolated economy and to suppress the multiple rebellions confronting it. Insurgent activity in the north has been accompanied by Red infiltration from China.

Philippines The Philippines have been a relatively bright spot in the outright and shadowy war against communism in Asia. A revitalized defense department under Ramon Magasayay, with the aid and counsel of U. S. military advisers, has whittled down the ragged Huk communist army. Officials hope to wipe out the threat completely by mid-1953.

Middle East Iran, which nationalized British oil property to spite its own economic nose, has grown progressively weaker and therefore more ripe for possible communist seizure of power. Communist influence was seen behind recent riots in Iraq, another rich oil country. The Russians are trying to foment trouble through Arab nationalism. Gen. Mohammed Neguib seized power in Egypt, ousted King Farouk, but has failed to settle the dangerous dispute with Britain, which retains its hold on the vital Suez canal.

Delights Club with Films

Continued from Page One people in the various countries differ, while at the same time their desires and interests along many lines are similar. As he told of the graciousness with which he, his brother and his sister-in-law, and Richard Marchenas, the latter of Bristol, were received in each country visited, he wove into the travelogue tales of human interest.

The harm of generalizing on one or two things when speaking of people of a certain race or nationality was stressed. "The world abroad is a very complicated and complex world," he stated. He added that he was not appearing before the group "as an arm-chair strategist."

"You sometimes have to go out of America to fully appreciate America," he remarked as he told of the thrill of hearing a European band, in deference to the visitors from this country, play "The Star Spangled Banner."

Before showing films which included the items mentioned he reminded that "Europe is a land of bicycles, oxcarts, horses, and a few mad drivers of automobiles."

The scenes, for which Mr. Burris was highly complimented at the conclusion of the program, included "shots" along the Riviera, the chateau country of France, the Alps, caves in which families dwell in southern France, the lake country of Switzerland, etc. Many of the films were of cathedrals, book stalls along the city streets, flower and fruit marts, the building of roads "by hand," gorgeous stained glass windows, sidewalk cafes, children at play, harvest scenes and so on.

Mrs. Frank S. Weik, club secretary, and member of the program committee, presented Mr. Burris to the membership.

Music for the afternoon was inclusive of two vocal soli by Mrs. John VanSoest: "Romance" and "One Alone," both by Romberg. Mr. Burris served as piano accompanist for the vocalist. Mrs. J. Robert Hendricks and Mrs. Betty Keiber presided at the tea table during the social hour.

Mrs. Robert D. Brooks, club president, called upon Mrs. George E. Boswell for prayer for peace. Announcement was made by Mrs. Elwood Gosline that plans to sponsor a play, which was to have been staged by Bristol high school seniors, have been cancelled.

Events for Today Pinochle party in Red Men's hall, Croydon, 8 p. m., sponsored by Red Men's Auxiliary.

Great Britain recognized the U. S. independence on Jan. 14, 1783.
